

STADIUM BEING PLANNED FOR KENTUCKY UNIVERSITY

Students, Faculty and Alumni Plan to Launch Campaign for Erection of Athletic Bowl on Stoll Field at Lexington.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 22. — Alumni and former students of the University of Kentucky are launching a campaign to build a stadium on Stoll Field with a seating capacity of 15,000 people.

Plans for the proposed undertaking are still in the formative stage, but much interest has been manifested in the proposition by all persons approached on the subject, it was said Tuesday by some of those interested in the project.

It has been estimated that a "U" shaped concrete and stone structure with seats for 15,000 spectators can be built for approximately $7.50 per seat. With a foot ball team of the quality that Kentucky promises to have next year and a few big games on the home grounds, the structure could be paid for in one or two seasons and thereafter would make the athletic department self-supporting and enable the university to take its rightful place with the leading colleges and universities of the south in the athletic line, according to the backers of the stadium idea.

The crying need for better and larger quarters for fans was evident at the Centre-State game this fall. The largest crowd that ever saw a foot ball game in Lexington witnessed that contest and it has been estimated that from 2,000 to 3,000 additional loyal rooters for one team or the other wanted to see it but could not get in the field.

It is pointed out that practically every state university in the south as well as the other large schools either have stadiums or are planning to build them. Vanderbilt has completed a new structure within the past year. Tennessee also has a new stadium. The University of Cincinnati is planning to build one, and the general trend throughout the country is toward increasing crowds at college foot ball games.

Many big eastern colleges with stadiums of immense seating capacity are beginning to worry about what to do with the overflow crowds.

The committee in charge of the "Barn Dance" at the Country Club Saturday night, would appreciate it if all those who expect to attend or who will bring guests, would notify the chairman, Mrs. Kehoe, as soon as possible. The affair promises to be a most unusual enjoyable occasion and every member is urged to attend in appropriate costume.

SACRIFICED HAPPINESS FOR WOMAN HE LOVES

Frank Mayo Plays Powerful Role in "Out of the Silent North."

The public seems never to tire of literature and drama depicting the reaction of people confronted by the real problems of life. A man facing a condition that might arise with anyone, and meeting the crisis with true nobility of spirit, always strikes a responsive chord. This is what Frank Mayo does in his latest Universal attraction, "Out of the Silent North," which comes to the Pastime Theater on Thursday.

Many in private life have sacrificed their own happiness for another. Many have had the bitter realization that someone they loved cared more for another. Many have met such crisis with the same quiet magnanimity that characterizes Pierre Bapiste, the ignorant French-Canadian portrayed by Frank Mayo in "Out of the Silent North."

Pierre loves Marcette, daughter of the store-keeper in the trading post where they live. A stranger comes, a man whose polished manners turn the innocent girl's head. Pierre understands, befriends, the stranger and saves his life. It is through this that Marcette realizes Pierre's true greatness. His willingness to sacrifice himself for her eventually gains him the thing on which he had set his heart.

"Out of the Silent North" was directed by William Worthington, who surrounded the star with an excellent cast including such talented players as Barbara Bedford and Lionel Belmore.

JUMP FROM SECOND STORY WINDOW MAY PROVE TO BE FATAL

Aged Colored Woman, Whose Mind Is Unbalanced, Jumps From Second-Story Window of Washington Home—Badly Injured.

Aunt Millie Gowens, a well known and highly respectable old colored woman living at Washington was very seriously and probably fatally injured at her home in that town Sunday morning before daylight, it has just become known.

The old woman, a former slave, is mentally unbalanced because of the weight of years and a complication of diseases and had been watched very closely by the members of her family. At about 3 o'clock Sunday morning, when all members of the family were asleep, the aged woman left her bed and wandered about the house, reaching a window on the second floor, she raised it and jumped out. She struck the ground on her hip and side and suffered a very serious injury to the side and other injuries which physicians fear may prove fatal because of her advanced age and infirmities.

Aunt Millie was one of the old school darkies and the whole Washington community had learned to love her through the years.

DEATH SENTENCE AFFIRMED.

The killing of Arbogast occurred November 26, 1921. The appeal from the death sentence imposed on Thomas was asked on the ground that the Jefferson circuit court erred in overruling a motion for continuance, which deprived the defendant of the opportunity of securing one of his witnesses.

The whole court sat in the case, the opinion being written by Chief Justice Rollin Hart.

TRUCK OF MAIL SEIZED BY THIEVES IN CHICAGO TODAY

Postal Authorities Say Bandits Got the Wrong Truck—Load of Registered Mail Getting By Earlier in Day.

Chicago, Nov. 22.—A truck load of mail was seized here today by auto bandits who kidnapped the driver and drove away with the mail sacks.

Postal authorities said the robbers held up the wrong truck and that a load of registered mail which left the postoffice a short time before was the loot sought.

Loss will be small, officials announced.

The truck was loaded with mail to be taken to Omaha by airplane and was en route to Maywood Aviation Field when held up on a South Side boulevard.

The driver, after being forced to accompany the robbers for nearly an hour in a wild drive through the principal boulevards of the city, finally was liberated on the North Side, miles from the scene of the holdup.

The truck had not been located three hours after the robbery.

An accurate description of all mail carried by airplane is taken because of the danger that it will be burned or lost, and postal authorities were able to check up accurately the exact character of the loot.

GOVERNMENT IN BUSINESS

The war forced all Governments to go into business, and the process of disentangling themselves from the burdens assumed at that time is far from being complete. President Harding's ideal of "less Government in business" is being only slowly realized.

We inherited the merchant marine as one of the results of the Government, engaging in what would ordinarily have been left to private industry. Potentially, this fleet may be a great national asset, but we have not yet succeeded in putting it on a paying basis. At the recent sale of the Government's wooden ships it was brought out that some of them embodied an outlay in wages seven times the normal rate of pay, and this illustrates only one of the difficulties of making the Government compete with private enterprise.

Allowing for a certain amount of fraud and deliberate imposition, the greater of the losses of Governmental activity in business must be laid to the system itself. This nation, as the richest of the belligerents, naturally suffered more than others, but the system produced similar results elsewhere.

The British auditor general has just issued a report on Government tarding losses that contains items of waste and ill management as ab as anything charged to inefficiency in our own experience. The British government went in for extensive food purchases and distribution, with tremendous losses. On a single item labeled "bacon transactions" from August, 1919, to March, 1920, a deficit of $5,709,962, or about $25,000,000, is chalked up against the taxpayers.

The same lesson is drawn that has been emphasized time and again. "The tendency will always be to raise the price against the Government for anything it desires to buy, and to exact the highest possible wages for the least possible return in the form of work." Besides, there is the inevitable interjection of politics into business enterprise.

We have had enough experience of the evils of governmental business ventures, ownership of utilities, etc., right here at home, but the lesson seems to be lost on the adherents of state socialism who want the government to go in to the very limit of this ruinous policy. —Milwaukee Sentinel.

HELPING UNCLE SAME

It is certain that if Uncle Sam fails to do the right thing it will not be for lack of advice. There are very few satesmen or publicists in England or France who have not taken notice of our benighted condition and pointed out the way for us to go. We notice also there is a good deal of similarity in the directions. The pathway pretty generally leads from Uncle Sam's strong box to the European pocket.

Sir George Paish, an English financial expert, is the latest of our advisers, and we will say for him that he leaves no doubt of what is wanted. For example, he tells us that we are hoarding our gold in government vaults when it ought to be out on the job of restoring international trade. The fact that he have an interest in protecting ourselves from inflation is noted without much respect.

Sir George also rebukes us for putting up our tariff barriers and wants them lowered so that foreign goods can "flow over them."

Next we receive praise for our shipbuilding program in the war, "as without ships we might have starved England," and we are advised to regard these ships as a war product and sell them for what we can get.

Finally, we are informed that our immigration policy is a great misfortune, and ought to be reversed so that through free immigration we may increase production and thereby better our country as a producer—and as a market for Europe.

Perhaps we ought to repeat the Sir George is a financial expert and not editor of Punch. As a wellspring of disinterested advice, we propose Sir George for the diamond medal. But we might wait until M. Clemenceau arrives. —Chicago Tribune.

PROOF OF THE PUDDING

Receipts of the government from income and profits taxes for September declined $241,000,000 from the figure for the same month last year, the total received being little more than half the amount taken in during September, 1921. The report is concrete proof of the fact that the Republican substantially reduced the tax burden when they passed the internal revenue law now in force. The rate of reduction will not hold good for all months in the year, but it has been estimated that the annual saving to the taxpayers is in the neighborhood of $800,000,000.

COMMENT

It looks like every judicial district in Kentucky will have a man to offer for the Democratic nomination for Governor. Even Cripps Beckham promises to stage a come-back.

The sheriffs have begun to summons men for jury service and many of those summoned have begun to think up a list of plausible excuses to offer.

Payment of county taxes has been very slow and many will find themselves "soaked" for the penalty if they don't look out. If every one waits until the last day of the month the sheriff's force will not be enabled to wait on the rush and somebody will be left out.

No matter what sort of noise or gurgling baby makes, Mother and Grandmother have a word for it and to hear them tell it, it's just as plain as can be. Sometimes, however, they get their wires crossed and don't exactly agree on what baby says.

It's just now beginning to get cold enough to open the stove league.

The money spent on hunters' licenses, ammunition and guns. In Mason county this year would buy enough rabbits to feed the whole state at one big banquet. But who wants to put a money value on the sport of hunting?

The fellow who believes something strong enough to stick to it and offer no apologies for his position is the sort of chap who deserves and receives respect. We soon lose respect for the fellow who is continually offering apologies for his position on an important issue.

We have now reached the season of the year when we just naturally think about new year's resolutions. We don't like to do it but we should also think about the resolutions made last New Years which we have broken throughout the year now nearing its last month.

We have very few mothers left who can and will make Johnnie a new suit out of Dad's cast off clothes. Remember the first suit of "store clothes" you ever had? Stricklin Gilliam's story of his first suit of "store clothes" is one of his best. Ever think about it and enjoy a good laugh?

Our Dairy Poem

A RIDDLE.

I have a head, a little head,
That you could scarcely see;
But I have a mouth much bigger
Than my head could ever be.
That seems impossible you say;
You think 't would be a bother.
Why, no! My head is at one end,
My mouth's way at the other.
I have no feet, yet I can run,
And pretty fast, 'tis said;
The funny thing about me is,
I run when in my bed.
I've not a cent in all the world,
I seek not fortune's ranks;
And yet it's true that, though so poor,
I own two splendid banks.
I've lots of "sand," yet run away;
I'm weak, yet "furnish power"
No hands or arms, yet my embrace
Would kill in half an hour.
You think I am some fearful thing,
Ah, you begin to shiver.
Pray, don't for, after all, you know
I'm only just a river.

BARRED ROCK PULLETS SETS NE WMARK ON STATION FARM.

Lexington, Ky. — All previous records for the number of eggs laid in a year by individual hens in the experiment station flock of the College of Agriculture have been broken by a Barred Plymouth Rock Pullet that has just completed her first year of laying with a total of 263 eggs to her credit, according to an announcement by J. Holmes Martin, in charge of the college poultry work. This is three more eggs than were laid by a White Leghorn hen that has held the farm record since 1919. The most striking thing about the new record as seen by poultrymen here is that good breeding, the right kind of feed and proper care made it possible for a hen to lay 260 eggs more in a year than the average hen on Kentucky farms lays. The new holder of the farm record is the result of only three years' work on the part of the station poultrymen to get Barred Plymouth Rocks that will lay a large number of eggs in a year.

The new record holder started laying November 3, 1921, and from that time until her first year was completed laid consistently every month. Now that her first year of laying has been finished, the amount of protein that has been fed her in the past is being cut down so that she will go into a molt and come back into laying in time to produce eggs for the spring hatching season. She laid 25 eggs in November, 27 in December, 21 in January, 22 in February, 27 in March, 21 in April, 25 in May, 18 in June, 20 in July, 20 in August, 22 in September, 14 in October and one during the first two days of November. The largest number of eggs which she laid on successive days was 22, this having been done between May 18 and June 8.

Aside from the fact that she is a bird of good size and has desirable Barred Plymouth Rock type and color, the new holder of the farm record is an example of what breeding, good feed and the right kind of care will do in raising the number of eggs that chickens lay. Mr. Martin says. Her mother was a hen that laid only 161 eggs in her best year but laid for 11 months, thus showing that she had the power

New York Letter

New York. — Hattie, one of our most popular elephants at the Central Park Zoo, is having daily bulletins issued about her health. She was taken seriously ill a few days ago and the city is worried. She seems to be improving steadily, and the interest of a considerable part of our population is centered, even more than upon her illness, on the fact that she is being given two quarts of whiskey a day. She seems quite satisfied with the regime.

Once again Romance fails before Routine! The Mexican Federation of Labor has notified labor leaders of this city of the formation in the Latin republic of "bullfighters' union." It would be thrilling if pleaders, banderilleros and matadores de toros would strike just when things got to a climax in the bull ring.

Talk about the "wide open spaces where men are men," we are getting just too picturesquely Western for words here in this effete Eastern metropolis. First there came the cowboys and cowgirls and New York flocked to the rodeo as it never has flocked to opera, and then yesterday we had our first barbecue. If we live long enough we'll get right primitive! It was held just half a block from the Great White Way, in the excavation for the Commonwealth hotel, and was prepared by Col. David T. Abercrombie, the barbecue expert of them all. Real campfires were built in the rock-carved space, and pigs and sheep were roasted there while, after the regular manner of barbecues, along with tubs of clam chowder for anyone who had not been educated up to a sturdy appetite. Theatrical Broadway accepted his invitations with enthusiasm, and Mary Carr, Sessau Hayakawa, Eddie Polo and scores of others enjoyed the roast pig to the utmost. Dr. Frank Crane was there to lend the literary atmosphere. It was a great occasion.

This generation has its Hamlet, after all. For a good many years they have been telling us that the real tragedians were a group belonging essentially and eternally to the past, that never again would there be an Edwin Booth or an Alexander Salvini. And now comes John Barrymore! It may be there have been Hamlets greater than his, but it is not in the arrogance of those who know only the actors of this generation that I say I doubt it. And I doubt if future generations will produce anything to exceed this production of "Hamlet" which Arthur Hopkins has just achieved with Barrymore and a splendid supporting cast. I never realized how human, and understanding, Hamlet could be—undoubtedly was. For the first time, the Prince of Denmark has been made as reality to me and I believe to thousands of others. The famous "To be or not to John Thames is 81 years old, an age when most men believe they have earned rest and relaxation from the strenuous duties of life and are not to be expected to rise to heroic heights. But there is no age limit on heroism, it seems. The other night when the lumber plant which he guards as night watchman caught fire, and it was a choice between safety and the call of the duty of his job, it never occurred to him to wait and make a decision. Armed with a slender garden hose, the watchman made his way into a blazing two-story building and by his work—and the risk of his life—checked the flames from spreading to thousands of feet of lumber and beyond. Then he dropped his way through a mass of flames to the office telephone and called the fire department, and returned to his task of keeping things in hand until they should arrive. Such things are worth remembering, if only for the sake of our own souls.

We don't know up as much as we pretend that we do—fortunately. The other night, after the shops were closed, I saw a score of people crowded the lighted ornate window of a Fifth Avenue department store. Men and women seemed held by some occult of tremendous importance. What could it be, I wondered. Surely no display of gowns or even jewels, could interest people so intently. I joined them and peered between their heads. A little replica of the legendary workshop of Santa Claus, with little toy men working away and Santa supervising! That was all, and that spell-bound crowd was made up on eighteen men and women and one child!

GASOLINE CONSUMPTION SHOWS WIDE VARIATION

Difference of 325,742,000 Gallons Noted Between High and Low Points For Year.

The tremendous fluctuation in the demand for gasoline from one season to another may be judged by comparing the lowest consumption for the year—257,946,000 gallons in February—with the record consumption of 583,688,000 gallons in August.

This represents a difference of 325,742,000 gallons, or 126.28 per cent, between the highest and lowest points was 549,958,000 gallons, or 33,730,000 gallons less than the consumption. That current production is not sufficient to supply the heavy summer demand is indicated by the fact that during August, the production of gasoline for the year.

In order to take care of the peak demand, it is necessary for the oil refining industry to operate on practically a uniform basis throughout the year. The deficit and about 35,000,000 gallons exported were drawn from refiners' storage stocks which were thereby reduced to 703,738,000 gallons, or about 67 gallons for each registered automobile.

Forty-one Marion county farmers and poultry raisers are keeping records on their poultry flocks to show that hens will lay more eggs during the winter if they are fed right and kept in good houses, County Agent H. J. Childress says. Those who are keeping records have entered their flocks in the winter egg laying project being conducted over the state by the extension division of the College of Agriculture, at Lexington.

PORTSMOUTH MAN KILLS HIS WIFE AND TURNS GUN ON SELF

Domestic Trouble of Portsmouth Couple Ends in Murder and Suicide
—Wife Had Obtained Divorce Only a Few Days Ago.

Portsmouth, Ohio, November 21.—Domestic difficulties for the last two years culminated today in the fatal shooting of Mrs. Emma Schied, 52 years old, by her husband, Adam Schied, 73 years old, at their home here. Schied fired two bullets into the body of his wife and then turned the gun upon himself, both dying instantly.

Saturday their marital relations ended in divorce court when Mrs. Schied obtained a decree of divorce, with alimony, on the grounds of cruelty.

Police found two empty half pint bottles on a dresser at the scene of the shooting and it is thought that the gun-user became enraged after imbibing too freely of moonshine.

The shooting took place when Mrs. Schied returned to her home to remove household effects. According to neighbors, Mrs. Schied remarked that she had consented to be wed to the aged man because she felt sorry for him, and he retorted, it is said, that he married her to give a home to her. They were married two years.

"I told Emma that she had better not try to take her household goods away, for it would mean serious trouble," J. B. Veach, her brother, said he advised his sister last night.

ALLEGED SLAYER FOUND UNDER HOUSE OF FATHER.
Louis, Ky. — Elbert Caldwell, 32, charged with shooting to death Liss Williams, a school teacher from Calmes Creek, who had gone to the Blaine church to escort home a young woman to whom Caldwell had paid court, it is alleged, was captured under the floor at the home of his father, Creed Caldwell. The capture was made by Constable Dru Parker, who was defied by Caldwell at the time of the shooting and submitted because unarmed. It is asserted.

JAILER IS FINED.
Richmond, Ky., Nov. 21.—In Federal court here today William Reynolds, jailer at Whitesburg, Letcher county, was fined $500 on a charge of having permitted prisoners to escape. Assistant District Attorney Henry Maguire said evidence in possession of the government was that prisoners were permitted to go about the town unmolested and that they publicly insulted Federal prohibition agents who had arrested them.

THE MODERN MOTHER
faces problems far beyond those of her forebears. She herself must be a much more competent person, combining in one individual the duties of nurse, cook, teacher and moral instructor. It is no wonder that many conscientious women break under the strain, and that others drag out a miserable existence; always tired, and yet unable to take a day's vacation. Such women will find themselves benefited and their burdens made easier by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which was made for suffering women, and does not fail to relieve them.

HOPPE DEFEATS JAKE SCHAEFER

Old Champion Regains Championship
By Coming From Behind at Critical Stage of Contest.

New York, Nov. 21.—Willie Hoppe regained his bailline crown tonight. In a match filled with daring play, in which his gathering shots stood forth, the old champion made his sensational comeback by defeating Jake Schaefer, winner of the title a year ago, at Chicago by a score of 500 to 253 in the final match of the International 18.2 bailline billiard championship tournament at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

Hoppe came from behind at a critical stage of the contest when Schaefer led him by more than 100 points. At the close he put together runs of 188 and an unfinished 105, that marked his return as the reigning monarch of caroms.

Hoppe's winning average was 418-12 and his other high runs 111, and 40. Schaefer's average was 237-12 with runs of 90, 68 and 45.

Hoppe's grand average was 37.87 while Schaefer takes second prize by his grand average of 30.21.

Harold Miner was fined $12.50 on a charge of speeding in City Court Wednesday afternoon by Judge Harry C. Curran.

The member of Scott M. E. church gave a dinner for the old folks on last Sunday. The table was laid in the lecture room and was beautifully decorated; and such a dinner—chicken, macaroni, mashed potatoes, corn pudding, sweet potatoes, beans, tomatoes, cabbage, salad and lemon pie. Never was food so well cooked. Every one helped even the children. All went home feeling that it had indeed been a great day one long to be remembered.
